Over-Capitalizing Strangles Industry
NOTED ECONOMISTS MAKES STARTLING CASE OF CAPITAL

Shows Why Goods Are Not Distributed -- "Controls" Govern 88 Per Cent of Firms--Fortunes Based on Intangibles, Not on Service
Property rights or "capital" based on intangible oil pools under the earth, and always over the earth; in factories and railroads that owners had never seen--let alone mixed their labor with or personally used; in the industrial output of generations unborn; in good will which represented nothing one could kick with his foot, but only earning power in excess of average earning power.

In the labor of street car miles which had died 50 years before; in all manner of intangibles and grotesques--these over-capitalizations are what is strangling and preventing the distribution of goods, says Stuart Chase, in a sensational article in the March Scribner's on "Prosperity in the Power Age."

He makes this startling statement: "Eighty-eight per cent of our greatest non-financial corporations are controlled by gentlemen other than their legal owners, through management agreements, voting trusts, non-par value stock, minority blocs and other devices of the legal fraternity."

In 1928, says Chase, 58 per cent of the corporations did 90 per cent of all corporate business, and ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENT then collected 54 per cent of all corporate profit.

The author cites these points in the course of his argument to show that the concept of property has changed with the power age. The author cites these points in the course of his argument to show that the concept of property has changed with the power age.

Technology of the power age has made it possible to produce vast quantities of goods, and there are more men who can do the work of others. The need to distribute these goods is a great problem, and it is a great problem of living everywhere, in a great world, that is a great problem of living everywhere, in a great world.

Chase develops his points at the end of his article, in a chapter on "The Power Age."

TIME NOT RIPE TO ENCOURAGE NEW INDUSTRY

Says Premier Brownlee As Industrial Survey Motion Is Killed

Accepting a re-statement of a resolution passed in the legislature two years ago that "the government of this province refrain its cabinet so that the main business of its ministers should be to devote his time to the development of mining and industry," Premier J. E. Brownlee, in the legislature on Monday warned the members that creation of such a department would not cure the economic ills of the province. He held out some hope that the department would be created.

The adoption of this resolution, originally passed on April 3, 1932, was an endorsement of the industrial policy of the government, as indicated by W. H. Ross, Liberal, who said that the government should not create a department of industry, that an economic survey of this province be made, and that the government should encourage and that a campaign under the supervision of the government be inaugurated to encourage the development of the province.

A motion was made before the amendment, which was moved by F. C. Moyer, Independent, Drumheller, was adopted.

The vote showed 29 for the amendment and 29 against. In view of the fact that the government has been passing two years ago, the industrial survey motion was not taken by the government in the legislature.

TIME NOT RIPE—BROWNLEE is all very well, but it is not encouraging industry and development, and it is not a vital thing to be considered before we can have industrial revival, much more to move to bring in new industries.

Those of us who are in the line of the first to agree that the time is not ripe for the development of new industries, look at the time is not yet ripe for the development of new industries.

MAINTAINED CODE The Premier kept his intention of bringing in legislation, a code of conduct for the industrial workers, such as is in effect in the U.S.A. in this respect, that the depression had changed the outlook of many of the industries.

NEW OIL INDUSTRY DUE The Premier took notice to the attention made earlier in the day by W. H. Brownlee, provincial Liberal, who said that the industrial workers of the province should be encouraged to develop the oil industry.

WANT Frank R. Lauder, Liberal, Alberta, drew attention to the fact that the industrial workers of the province should be encouraged to develop the oil industry.

Not Only Pretty, Has Grand Opera Voice

Pratt Ruby La Gourne of Riverside, Calif., recently won a contest staged to determine the possessor of the most promising female voice. She was awarded a $200 scholarship, and was groomed for grand opera. Miss La Gourne was chosen over the rest of the candidates for the scholarship for her poised, delivery of quality of voice. The judges of voice, composed of critics and opera singers, gave her their unanimous vote. She is 20 years old.

FATAL BATTLE FIGHTING FOLLOWS EDICT EMBROK

LABOR SECRETARY QUILTS CABINET AS CLASHES RECORDED

DOLLAR TICKET SYSTEM WINS IN STANDPAT

Strident Efforts to Secure 'Five-for-Quarter' Prove Abortive

Waging an unrelenting battle to have the present street railway fare of 20 cents for a dollar changed to one of five tickets for 25 cents, three labor leaders met Monday night when support was given the recommendation of the five-cent committee. The motion to adopt the committee's report was moved by Aid. J. W. Findlay.

SECURE AID
Ald. Margaret Crang and Aid. R. V. Bellamy, who have sought consistently for a five-cent fare, at least a rate of five-for-a-quarter, secured the aid of J. W. Findlay to the latter proposal. The majority of council felt, however, it would be dangerous to adopt any other fare than the one in effect at present was given in fair trial.

Ald. J. H. Ogilvie caused a mild furor on the aldermanic board when he suggested the five-cent nickel fare as a "political ruse for political purposes." The alderman said she resented this allegation, as the spirit behind the proposal, simply one directed to avoid discrimination against street car patrons unable to purchase the 80 tickets.

Clearly stating his stand on the question, Aid. R. V. Bellamy said that neither the fact that the move expediently warranted the nickel cash fare. An effort was being made to raise commensurate the management of utilities was viewing such a move with alarm, since street car rates were being maintained at a level that could not be increased as easily as prices in other lines of business.

HEAVY DEFICITS
As for the facts of the case, continued the alderman, the Edmonton street railway department had suffered heavy deficits in recent years. In the best of years it had shown only a small profit. Under the new fare system, would mean higher taxes, which would bring in its wake confiscation of property. He would sooner see a fare tariff of five for a quarter than a straight nickel cash fare.

At this point in the discussion, Aid. Ogilvie remarked that he was of the opinion the nickel fare suggestion was being advanced as a political ruse for political purposes. He believed council should hearken to the superintendent's advice and resist the temptation of adopting the rate now in effect.

Ald. Findlay went on record as supporting the rate of five tickets for 25 cents. Termining his remarks, Cunningham, head of the street railway department, "the best of aldermen nevertheless felt that this suggestion was making his report the angle of the operation of the system. Aldermen on the other hand, were there to represent the views of the people."

STUBBORN STUBBILITY?
"Why persist in this stubborn stupidity?" asked Aid. Crang, in

This Would Cause Riot Anywhere

We are assured that, at the recent fashion show in Paris at which the pictured mademoiselle burdened her lovely form with the few habiliments that the picture exhibitors, the mannequins, no less, blushed when they were asked to march before the assembled folk who paid to see the show. Our fashion commentator on the scene tells us that the costume the lady is wearing, so-to-speak, is green and is for beach wear. It's a fascinating creation, when properly shown. It would cause a 'Paris riot' in anybody's city, we think.

COAST TO COAST... wherever exhibited, the new AIRFLOW De Soto has caused a sensation. You have seen no-called "streamlining" in other cars...here's the real thing. Thrilling as a modern plane.

DOG RESTRICTING BYLAW PLANNED

Suggesting legislation which would curtail the freedom of Edmononton's canine population, Ald. H. D. Ainlay and Aid. J. W. Fry proposed to city council Monday night, that a bylaw be drafted which would prevent dogs from running at large in the city. It was reported that this regulation was to be in effect in Calgary. Both aldermen claimed that dogs were becoming a nuisance in the city. In many instances they ran in packs and destroyed gardens. Various animals were a menace to the public. Many complaints had been received in connection with annoyance caused by dogs.

He would favor a reduction in the license fee if dog owners would make a strong effort to control their pets, said Aid. Ainlay. Aid. Fry moved that steps be taken to bring down the necessary bylaw.

Transient Indigents Rouse Council Ire

Failure of the provincial government to contribute toward the care of indigents, which the city did not regard as its responsibility, roused the ire of city council, Monday night, and in an effort to bring this issue to a head aldermen voted with Aid. J. W. Findlay in his motion that a report on the cases in question should be prepared and submitted to Edmonton's representatives in the provincial legislature, who would be asked to bring this matter before the government.

The action of outside municipalities in "tossing the buck" was also vigorously attacked. Aid. H. D. Ainlay said that relief cases were being passed on to the city by the municipalities, which were even digging in order to get rid of them. "Many of these municipalities are cutting wages to the bone. They are throwing surplusage and are reducing the mill rate. And they are shipping their charges to us," he declared.

Ald. J. W. Fry wanted to know where the matter was going to end if relief cases from outside were going to be allowed to flock into Edmonton.

At the present time the city was caring for 35 "borderline" cases (those for which the province and city claim they have no responsibility). Mayor D. K. Knott told council, in many cases the province refused to contribute toward their care, and the result was that the city was having to foot the whole bill.

The city's parliamentary representative at Ottawa should also be "gagged" in connection with this grievance, suggested Aid. Ainlay.

Wednesday Has Milder Forecast

Temperature rapidly dropped as a 20-mile north wind swept over the city in a chilling blast Monday afternoon. Clouds covered the sky and a few flakes of snow drifted in the wind, but in the evening the sky cleared and Tuesday morning was clear, crisp and cold. The weather of your family certainly deserves no less.

So see that you get Phillips' Milk. For your family's peace of mind. For the absolute protection of your children. You can get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at any drug store, in liquid or tablet form, 25c and 50c sizes.

Cardross Girl Shot Through Head
CAMPBELL, Sask., March 12.—Leaving no message or other reasons for her act, Miss Christine Mitchell, 17-year old daughter of A. W. Mitchell, apparently committed suicide by shooting herself through the head with a 22-rifle Monday.

Miss Mitchell was later alone in the house by her father early in the morning. Upon returning he found her lying dead on the kitchen floor, the rifle beside her. An inquest has been ordered.

MORE MEDICAL SERVICE DEBATE

Another step in its effort to effect the amalgamation of health services was taken by city council, Monday night. Aldermen supported a motion by Aid. C. L. Gibbs that council seek (1) an amendment to the School Act of a permissive nature giving the school boards power to enter into an amalgamation agreement; and (2) that the provincial minister of health be asked to bring a bill before the legislature amending the Health Act which would also be in the nature of permissive legislation.

He did not advocate the changing of the present city charter amendment which gave the school boards the necessary powers for an amalgamation as far as the city was concerned.

No duty devolved on the aldermen to seek an amendment to the School Act, again, Aid. R. V. Bellamy. The city health board had already taken action as far as the Health Act figured in the case, while city council had also passed a charter amendment would be submitted to the legislature for ratification.

Commissioner David Mitchell explained that both the public and separate school boards were of the opinion that if the amalgamated service were adopted it should be tried for a three-year period. The public school board also maintained that a referendum should be placed before the electorate before consolidation was effected.

Attacking the public school board's proposal that members of the city health board should be elected by their positions, Aid. J. W. Findlay told council it was a fact that the health board was the best men for the jobs would not run for office. The city was therefore deprived of their valuable services. He believed the health board should be the most important body in the city. In conclusion, he urged greater representation of school trustees on the health board. He was of the opinion the public

HORSE SHOWS HIS DISLIKE OF MOTORCAR

A high stepping horse that never made the race track, blocked himself and his owner into the police news Monday. The nag, all his life a plain workhorse, put his foot through the windshield and hood of a car driven by J. Christian, 109 avenue 13, at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Christian was driving east along 111 avenue and was nearing 95 street when he started to pass a team of horses being led by W. Tymko of North Edmonton. The motorist did not get past. The horse's head shattered the windshield in his lap and forced him to duck as the nag followed through the stroke with his hoof projecting through the car hood.

NO WATER, BAD ROADS, HOME IS BURNED DOWN

Faulty stove pipes, a high wind and lack of water cost John Oreski his home at 12245 56 street shortly before noon Tuesday, when fire destroyed the house and burned up the sidewalk along it. The loss was covered by $750 insurance on the building and $750 on the contents.

It was a small one-storey frame building, and flames issuing from over-heated stove pipes fanned by a strong wind, spread rapidly to all parts of the residence. An alarm was rung in and number five and seven fire halls under Deputy Chief James McGregor responded. Heavy muddy roads in that area made driving of fire trucks difficult at a high rate of speed and firemen found the place wrapped in flames when they arrived.

Blocks away from city water mains, nothing could be done to save the doomed structure. Not a stick of furniture was saved.

Evangelist On Long Voyage In Small Vessel

The evangelist said he knows nothing of that country, its customs or language, and is answering no human call to spread the gospel.

There is only one PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Be sure the name PHILLIPS is on the bottle—Why you should take no chances with Unknown Substitutes

Your doctor will tell you that giving your children unknown drugs is one of the most dangerous things you can do. A child's health is too precious for experiment. The only safe way is to follow the doctor's advice.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS' For Your Child

When it comes to the very important—and often used—"milk of magnesia"—if you are offered a substitute for the real Phillips' article, ask your doctor before you buy it. For 30 years physicians have said "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, the safe remedy for your child." They know that substitutes are not "like" Phillips'.

Wednesday Has Milder Forecast

Temperature rapidly dropped as a 20-mile north wind swept over the city in a chilling blast Monday afternoon. Clouds covered the sky and a few flakes of snow drifted in the wind, but in the evening the sky cleared and Tuesday morning was clear, crisp and cold. The weather of your family certainly deserves no less.

So see that you get Phillips' Milk. For your family's peace of mind. For the absolute protection of your children. You can get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at any drug store, in liquid or tablet form, 25c and 50c sizes.

Cardross Girl Shot Through Head
CAMPBELL, Sask., March 12.—Leaving no message or other reasons for her act, Miss Christine Mitchell, 17-year old daughter of A. W. Mitchell, apparently committed suicide by shooting herself through the head with a 22-rifle Monday.

Miss Mitchell was later alone in the house by her father early in the morning. Upon returning he found her lying dead on the kitchen floor, the rifle beside her. An inquest has been ordered.

FRANCE FINDS A MARKET

France has made a deal with Japan whereby a syndicate will be formed to sell French goods in the "independent" state of Manchukuo. The independence of Manchukuo is a purely nominal length of giving that country power to regulate its trade relationships with other countries. Japan attempts to take full detail for the inexperienced Emperor Pu Yi.

France is a long way from Manchukuo, and specializes in manufactured goods, in which Japan also specializes. France is to receive payment for its goods in gold, or the equivalent thereof in products or other metals; and neither Japan nor Manchukuo have gold to spare.

If France can find a market for its goods in Manchukuo, Canada should be able to find a market there for the very different products that produce for export. The policy of Canada was aimed at promoting trade instead of preventing it. We could assuredly do business in that quarter if we could accept silver in payment, or trade products on the basis of counting silver as money, and not merely as a commodity we do not want.

TWO KINDS OF PROPERTY

Mr. Stuart Chase is no stranger to readers of the Bulletin. On the front page today is reproduced another of his illuminating articles, entitled "Property and the Public." Mr. Chase draws the distinction between what may be properly considered personal property and that which must be considered public property. Personal property is that in the use of which only the owner and his household are concerned. Community property is that in the use of which the public, or some section of the public, are also affected according to the way it is used.

A violin illustrates the nature of personal property. The owner may play it or not, but it will play itself, without imposing hardship on the community. A factory is different. When it works it produces goods, and if the owners are affected. The employees are thrown out of employment and their income is cut off.

The depression has shown plainly enough what Mr. Chase's definition of property means. The employees are thrown out of employment and their income is cut off. The depression has shown plainly enough what Mr. Chase's definition of property means. The employees are thrown out of employment and their income is cut off.

Mr. Chase's article is a real contribution to our understanding of economic set-up disclosed by these depression years, and the readjustments which will have to be made to prevent the recurrence of like periods of distress.

MISFORTUNE SHOULD NOT BAR

Calgary city council is asking for a charter amendment to prevent persons on relief being thereby deterred from running as candidates in a civic election.

Normally the proposal would be unequalled, and would arouse wide objection. But it is not the normal case. Thousands of urban and rural residents are now on relief who ordinarily are self-supporting and tax-paying. To suppose they are on relief is to suppose they are dependent citizens, and have become dangerous irresponsibles, is absurd. If this depression were to last for five years, the number of men who are left eligible to run as candidates if those on relief were barred?

Discarded attaches to the man who has been swept out of employment by the landslide of deflation and forced to accept assistance for his family from the public, and no loss of political rights are attached to men who are on account of that misfortune.

Moreover, it would make for peace, order and good will among the community in Edmonton and every other centre that has been thrust upon relief had a recognized spokesman in the city council. There would be fewer delegations to elected and appointed officials on the market squares if these unfortunate classes of citizens had representatives to speak for them regularly at the council boards.

PROVINCIAL INDEPENDENCE

In the legislature Mr. Deane, member for St. Paul, expressed a desire that the province of Alberta is being "absorbed" by the national authority, and in a way to lose its sovereignty. It will be well to remember that the province who think we should do nothing so improper as to ask the holders of provincial bonds to accept a lower rate of interest than that which allows any means to lay information that they are denied the possibility of default. It will be stoutly denied also by financial interests who are concerned only in extracting the last penny from under their bonds, and which may be

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

None the less, there is a basis of reality for the contention. On the 30th of January last Alberta was indebted to the Dominion to the extent of $3,082,000, money advanced during the last three years for ordinary provincial purposes, as well as for carrying on relief work. This province is no longer a self-dependent political entity. It is a financial dependency of the Dominion, with its revenues being used in advance to the federal treasury at a rate upwards of $3,000,000 a year. That looks unpleasantly like a prodigious "absorption."

Further, at the time of the last visit of Premier Bennett to Edmonton it became known that there was financial crisis in Montreal and Toronto, and that the province would be brought to the aid of the western provinces and to place them under an administrative commission on behalf of their bondholders. That looks equally like a threat to our provincial "sovereignty."

No blame attaches to the Brownlee Government because it has had to do its borrowing at Ottawa, and there is no suggestion that Premier Bennett or his party to any plan to surrender self-government in the western provinces. But the facts amply show that no means should be neglected to re-establish the financial independence of the province and avert the danger of default.

A re-financing of the provincial debt is the one way to free Alberta from its financial fetters, and heavier obligations to Ottawa, and from the menace of giving the way of Newfoundland.

Vitamin "D" Often Lacking

In Winter Months

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

Vitamin D makes your body able to use lime (also called calcium) and phosphorus in building strong bones and teeth. This vitamin may be secured in two different ways. Undoubtedly nature meant for man to get enough vitamin D by bathing the unprotected body in sunlight.

When the ultra-violet rays from sunlight reaches the bare skin, you can then make vitamin D for yourself, and if you were spending a winter in a sunny climate where you could get some sunbathing and stretch out in the sun, you would naturally get all of the vitamin D that you need.

However, during the winter, many of us get very little sunlight, and we make vitamin D for ourselves, and if you were spending a winter in a sunny climate where you could get some sunbathing and stretch out in the sun, you would naturally get all of the vitamin D that you need.

When there is not enough of this vitamin, such disorders as rickets and osteomalacia result due to the fact that the body is no longer able to build strong bones and teeth. Rickets is a disease common in young children, and is characterized by the teeth is found at all ages. However, rickets can be readily cured by giving the patient plenty of vitamin D.

As a general rule, I believe that the average patient using both cod liver oil and vitamin D, meat, fish, and eggs, and who takes sunbaths will get enough of all the vitamins. However, there are many cases where it is advisable for a patient to watch closely to see if there are any signs present which show that vitamin D is lacking. It is then all right to make a special effort to put this vitamin in the diet.

For example: The child with rickets, the child or adult with decayed teeth, the expectant and nursing mother, and the patient suffering from the body. One of the ways most talked about at the present time is through using "Vitamin D" in cod liver oil. It tastes like other milk, the vitamin is not harmed by cooking, and it makes a very easy way for the mother to give the family vitamin D. This kind of milk is produced by feeding the cows on irradiated yeast. The dry yeast has been made in vitamin D by irradiation with ultra-violet light, and it has been found that a certain amount of this vitamin will then be passed on to the milk product for many years.

The Alberta Legislature, acting on a request for funds for the research work, will be required to make a special effort to put this vitamin in the diet. It is then all right to make a special effort to put this vitamin in the diet.

Most of the other provinces have already raised the qualification to Grade 11 requirements. The reason advanced is the need for the patient—as if pouring more algebra and literature into a girl's head were able to adjust her to a better education, or avoid the many painful bangles that have marred the reputation of hospital nurses of late. The true reason, as expressed by the Alberta Legislature, is that the American Academy of Medicine, is that there are too many nurses for the patients who can be cared for.

The remedy for this, as for sweatshop conditions in the protected furniture and clothing trades, is not to force would-be probationers to put in more years at school, but to make basic economy and currency conditions of Canada, that the idle and semi-idle masses will be able to find work, and to hire the capable people who need nursing, to hire nurses.

All this gives additional impetus to the forthcoming visit of Major C. H. Douglas to western Canada. Major Douglas is the inventor of "Social Credit," which is a new economic system, and his supporters in Australia and New Zealand. The secret of Japan's sensational gains in foreign trade is declared by Douglas to be due to the deliberate adoption by the Japanese government of "a working of the Douglas Social Credit scheme up-to-date." This column recently told of the visit some years ago by two Japanese students of economic systems, to the headquarters of the Social Credit League in London, and of their declaration that they had found the solution for which they had been seeking.

Douglas has been touring New Zealand with the object of preparing a draft of the new Social Credit, applicable to the conditions of New Zealand, that is, at Vancouver on his way home, at the end of this month. He is to lecture in a number of New Zealand cities.

The problem, as Douglas sees it, is that while production is increasing, and the standard of living is taking care of itself, with the result that production outpaces consumption of goods. He would therefore suggest that the government should take the difference between the "true price" and the "social credit." His proposals call for the public ownership and control of all issues of currency and the issue of a new "social credit" bank of banking. It would however withdraw from the banks their present right to create—and destroy—credit at will.

He would also suggest a scientific price regulation system fix the "just price" of commodities. Consumers would purchase at the "just price," the difference between the "true price" and the "just price" being met by drawing on one's portion of the national credit. This national credit is made up of the value of the goods and services in the real wealth of the nation.

In Japan where pirated editions of his books are sold, Douglas is considered a hero, and he is a well-instructed section of the nation. The phenomenal increase in Japanese exports, he says, has been brought about by subsidizing the exports of the national credit. It is not the Japanese who are the economic saviour to lead the nations into a new and better way. This Scottish engineer-economist may be the economic messiah.

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History — By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date, in 1857, readers of Canadian newspapers were assured and dismayed by the news that a dreadful railway accident had taken place at Hamilton the previous day. The Great Western train pulled out of Hamilton on the 22nd of January, 1857, and was derailed by a landslide at Hamilton and Niagara Falls. It consisted of a locomotive and two passenger cars, and the two passenger cars were filled. All went well until the train reached the bridge over the Deseronto canal near Burlington.

Suddenly a loud whistle sounded from the locomotive. Before the passengers could ask themselves what it meant they were in the midst of death and destruction. The train was completely derailed, and a lengthy investigation was held.

investigation was held, the locomotive jumped the bridge, knocked the bridge out of position and tumbled into the ice-covered canal below, causing the death of the first car and the rest from

Marriage Love First Allegiance

DEAR MISS DIX.—There is a lot of arguing in our office about whether a man should give his greatest love to his wife or his mother, and it should be the same for the other. Some of the arguments are a man's mother should always be more to him than his wife, while others think that after marriage the mother should step aside and give place to the wife. We would appreciate very much knowing what you think on the subject.

A. P. T.

Answer:—I don't think there ever should be any argument on the subject, because a man's love for his mother and his love for his wife are two entirely different emotions and they do not conflict with each other. To ask whether a man should love his mother or his wife best is just as absurd as asking whether he likes the best, beef or he cream.

No matter how devotedly a man loves his mother, it does not take the place to him of romantic love. He can fairly worship mother and think her the most wonderful woman in the world, but that does not keep him from falling head over heels in love with a pretty young girl and feeling that she will be kinder, softer and dust without her.

Nor does mother's companionship suffice a man, no matter how intelligent mother is nor how she gets along with the times. A man may dutifully take mother around with him wherever he goes, but if he is an average man he will have really little in common. It is an abnormal companionship. Mother's reactions to the pleasures and amusements of youth are artificial, she can't dance and play with him nor have the wild enthusiasms nor even speak the language that a girl would use.

No man needs as a male a woman of his own age and his own generation, for a man needs a mother, but he thinks about it as if he is married to a woman. But all of this does not affect a man's love for his mother. Indeed, the more a man loves his mother, the more he appreciates his wife, because his wife has given him a better understanding of women. No man ever realizes the sacrifices his mother has made for him until he has children of his own, for when he does he realizes that a girl never comes.

In a case of dire necessity, if a man was forced to choose between his mother and his wife, it should be decided by circumstances. If it is the theoretical case that is so often promulgated, it is the wife who is to be chosen, for she is able to save one or the other in a crisis. I think he should choose the wife on the ground that she is younger and has a longer expectation of life and usefulness and on the ground that there are probably children who need her care.

But if it is a case of poverty when one or the other of the women is forced to go out and labor, I think it should be the wife, because she is younger and stronger and better able to find employment than the older woman.

If it is a quarrel between the wife and the one whose cause is the most just.

When a man is married his first allegiance is to his wife. He should be able to leave his father and mother and cleave unto his wife.

He should not sacrifice his wife to his mother by forcing her to live with mother if mother is tyrannical and disagreeable and if his wife's life is unhappy. He should not go to mother with his confidences and ask her advice in preference to his wife unless he has been led astray by marriage. He should not neglect his wife's needs and should not allow his wife to be thrown up to his mother, for he should be the mother's adviser of his house. When he marries he should be his mother's little boy and be his wife's husband.

And mother should have enough and love enough to be willing to take a second place in her own life and let the wife be first because a man's happiness depends on his loving his wife in all other things. DOROTHY DIX.

Sunnysayings By FANNY Y. CORY.

Well, well! Here's the corner I spent hours of thousands of hours in when I was a little rascal.

When Tim Premier I show they'll pay as much as ten cents just to get a squirt at it—

By BARTON LEWIS.

Old Major Cummings read the letter that the desk man at the ultra exclusive Unity Club had given him. It was a letter from a few moments and then glanced at it with a frown. He was not sure if Herkimer happened to be there. Herkimer was usually at the club.

The major got up and walked

Old time.

Tom had his son join in a drink and then resumed talking about and did.

Not at all, Tom—But I manage to get along. Morrison said so.

Get along, Say, Tom, get this.

"Jim says a couple million income of a couple million."

"Well, well," Tom burst and eyed him both playfully.

There was a pause.

"Come on now," Jack Cumings said, "we'll wait the four and commence and financial king title." Now Jack—what about your family?"

"Why—Mr. Cummings did say—"

"Sorry—mighty sorry. He wasn't there no children." he said.

Godfrey said, that's too bad.

"Oh, I never married—devoted myself to business instead. No one can tell me where you get off—I was the wife had, hey, Tom, plenty."

"My good—"

Tom said, "I have no wife—there was—a misunderstanding after I'd been put—let me see, we just parted."

"But—I feel like you both out-and—"

Tom said, "I'm shocked at a tip-of-the-

of the same kind as a man

probably thirty-five."

"You ask me to bring in the tride," he said.

"Sure."

And so it happened that three of prominent men in finance and commerce as one might expect to get together started for Beverton. Major in Commerce said her's amazing imported car.

They stopped over in Boston and made Beverton town next. They were very surprised when they saw the handsome five-room granite hotel set in the midst of beautifol grounds.

"That's old I wrote him—"

he's come to the hotel to meet up

Morrison said as they came to a stop.

"Spiry old man, despite the God-day-like life he's lived, buried here."

Major observed as Tom Leighton ran down the steps and stuck out his hand, rubbed nose and hand-to greet them.

"I don't need a suite for a suite for boys—come right up," Tom said.

He led them, elevator took them to three rooms and after the chauffeur had dropped the luggage told him to go down and get his own quarters.

Gladys Declares Ankles May Be Made Shapely

By GLADYS GLAD

"Ankle's the most famous beauty!"

Back in the days of hobble skirts and bare-hair days, a well-turned ankle was considered one of the greatest of beauty assets. In those days, of course, women concealed their limbs beneath voluminous skirts. And the more they concealed, the more they were the last who permitted

her ankles to be seen at any time was considered a decidedly risque.

Today, naturally,

ankles are no longer concealed and are being displayed to the public. This is anything but a new thing, for ankles have been the subject of the most famous beauty experts.

The first, my last article, I stressed the importance of proper exercise

for reducing and maintaining the ankles. But in addition to exercise

there are two important things

to be considered in the treatment of the ankles. That may be employed.

...only to be used in emergency or extreme necessity, and not being used, Mr. Speaker, to the magnitude of the use that has been made of it in covering up the crime of the 1968 election. It is a crime that has cost the taxpayers of this country more than $100 million of dollars for themselves. Sir, with more regarding municipal elections—elections—making it clear that they were fully entitled to run as mayors, to be added in or for any other municipal—

More discussion took place on the proper property qualification clause, which provides that a petitioner shall be qualified to have or to hold any office or position of honor or trust or shall be required to have or to hold any office or position of honor or trust.

AND there were other things, Mr. Speaker. Looking over the estimates tabled by the government this session, Sir, the Liberal leader had the impression that they had been brought down without showing the actual expenditures for the previous year. He said to the government, "This is your government, Mr. Speaker, is it not? It is actually asking us to vote sums for

The debate, which lasted for several hours, was taken part in by all members of the house.

Mr. Robert Duggan, a well-prepared and exhaustive brief, reviewed the world economic situation.

"The development of Western Canada has been based on the as-taskini; Fred J. White, a Labor leader, and D. M. Duggan, provincial Conservative leader, all of whom questioned the wisdom of the resolution. Mr. Montgomery could see no excuse for it at all. Mr. White thought it too broad and Mr. Duggan thought that in taking the responsibility for ruling out certain classes of films the members

Bones, Pineapples, Refugees and Casualties—War!

A GERMAN OF 1915—Rags, bones and water bottles, all that remained on Hill 304 when the French finally took it three years later and buried their own and the German dead. To what heights will men aspire in war! High ground fascinates soldiers, because look you at Alexander the Great, King of Macedon and king of kings. Then look you at Hill 60, Hill 70, Hill 304, Vimy Ridge, and all the rest of the high spots. The next war will probably have developed a hill-builder so that the troops will not run short of heights to die for.

PINEAPPLES—A collection of these pretty little whanging German trench mortar darts, fired from a base as portable as a typewriter, deadly as a Mills bomb.

THIS HAPPENS TO BE A ROAD IN SERBIA — But it might be a road any of us might know should war come our way. Behind them comes destruction. With their household goods on wagons, driving their sheep and their pigs and carrying their babies, these hapless ones who dared to have an enemy are heading for parts unknown, facing hunger, fevers and winter's coming. By what means shall men end war?

THEY ARE NOT SLEEPING—These Serbians, in the restful attitudes are some of the 700,000 dead this little nation left strewn along its highways.
